

The Lansdown LOUDMOUTH

FESTIVE OFFERINGS APLENTY

Mr. and Mrs. Claus welcome you all to The Lansdown this December. With a dram of malt whisky in one hand and a glass of mulled wine in the other, these two really know how to lead by example. Keep your eyes peeled for random appearances from our festive couple over the next few weeks.

Our Sunday lunches throughout December have the added choice of turkey, and as per usual tables are already getting booked up. Please book early to avoid disappointment.

The wide range of homemade pies have been selling like...well... hot pies! From traditional beef and ale, to rabbit, venison and several vegetarian options, if you've not yet tried one, well maybe you should.

Not so Silent Night...

Sunday December 15th sees our increasingly popular beer garden once again play host to an audience with the Riff-Raff Choir.

For those who don't know, Riff-Raff have been using our function room for singing practice since they were founded in 2010 and have gone from strength to strength also running groups in Southville and Bishopston.

Last year saw a packed crowd come to enjoy their dulcet tones, so why not come along. Starting from 5pm, come and grab yourself a glass of mulled wine and even sing along if you fancy.

PLEASANTLY POTABLE

The festive month sees the return of Cock Robin to The Lansdown real ale pumps. Much missed throughout the rest of the year, this Christmas ale takes the top spot in December sales for the Bristol-based Great Western Brewing Company.

This 4.3% premium bitter boasts red berry aromas as well as the warming self satisfaction associated with drinks of the season. Cheers!

We've kept you waiting, but Amanda's homemade mulled wine and cider were finally unleashed in the second half of November. As popular as ever, be sure to warm your cockles while you still can as it will all be gone before you know it; we all know how swiftly time flies at this time of year.

Warm winter Pimm's and hot spiced rum also available, just ask at the bar.

ALL MOVER FOR ANOTHER YEAR!

Well didn't our boys do well? Our Movember debutants have managed to make it through the month unscathed...or should it be unshaved? A prickly few weeks for our male members of staff as they helped raise awareness and funds for prostate cancer research through the growth of facial hair. The most common cancer for UK males, 1 in 8 will be diagnosed with the disease, most common in men over 50, with the risk increasing with age.

As promised we have donated 25p per pie sold (and they have been flying out of the kitchen), and Hook Norton Brewery have kept to their word, giving up 25p per pint of Old Hooky you have downed. In addition our Movember raffle, along with collection pots on the bar have all been counted, meaning that we have successfully raised over £450 for Prostate Cancer UK.

We could not have done it without you, so many thanks to all our customers and many congratulations to the raffle winners who take away an assortment of food and drinks prizes. Lastly, to our mo bros, please feel free to break out the razors!

KICK-OFF THE NEW YEAR IN STYLE

6 Nations Live at The Lansdown

The English will first have to remove the tail from between their legs, before attempting to set the record straight after their final day thrashing at the hands of those men in red from over the bridge. Also, a fiercely competitive set of Autumn Internationals saw Ireland's men almost achieve what no other team managed to do this year...beat the All Blacks. This sets the stage for another close-run 6 Nations competition, with every minute being shown on our TV and big screen. The party starts on 1st Feb with Wales v Italy followed by France v England. Not to be missed!

Let's Get Quizzical...

Wednesday quiz night continues every week before Christmas, from 8pm.

And lastly, from us all at The Lansdown we wish all our customers and a joyous 2014!
